ARTIFICER APPRENTICE TRAINING

Part I New Entry Training in HMS FISGARD Weeks 1-4.

Part II Training in HMS FISGARD from Week 5 onwards.

Part III Training in HMS CALEDONIA, COLLINGWOOD or DAEDALUS.

The normal course, in HMS FISGARD, lasts for 3 Terms.

Some Apprentices, who are appropriately qualified on entry and do well in a Grading Examination during their first week here, are selected as Accelerators. The latter group will pass through HMS FISGARD in 2 Terms.

The Naval Department Part I Examination (NDI) is taken towards the end of the second term; the Part II Examination (NDII) at the end of the third term. Accelerators are exempt ND I in most subjects.

The normal foundation course in HMS FISGARD is broken down as follows:

Naval General Training	38%
Technical Education	44%
Craft Skill	18%

The terminology of Technical Education and Craft Skill are self explanatory, but Naval General Training (NGT) may not be fully understood. NGT includes an element of naval general knowledge, i.e. learning such things as Firefighting, First Aid, Hygiene, Naval Heritage, Internal Security and Upkeep of Kit, but is primarily concerned with the character development and leadership training of the Apprentices. It must be remembered that, shortly after completion of his full training, at sea, the Naval Artificer automatically achieves Chief Petty Officer status. Your son must therefore demonstrate during his time at HMS FISGARD, that he has the potential to direct and lead the activities of Junior Rates. He can fail as much from lack of progress in this aspect, as he can in Technical Education and Craft Skill.

REPORTS

If your son is under 18 at the end of his second and third terms, you will receive progress reports on those occasions. Additionally, you will be informed should his progress become unsatisfactory.

If your son is over 18 on entry, regular progress reports will not be provided. If, however, his progress becomes unsatisfactory, and if your son agrees, progress reports will be sent to you until such time as his progress again becomes satisfactory.

If your son achieves the age of majority whilst he is at HMS FISGARD, regular progress reports will be discontinued. If however, his progress is unsatisfactory at this time, and if your son agrees, progress reports will be continued until such time as his progress becomes satisfactory.
